Acknowledgements

The African Tax Administration Forum (ATAF) is grateful to 15 countries for their participation in this, the first edition of the African Tax Outlook (ATO). ATAF would like further to thank the heads of the 15 tax authorities for committing their resources and releasing their heads of research planning and data collection to take part in the different consultative workshops and ensure the success of this publication, the first of its kind.

ATAG also wishes to extend its sincere congratulations to its research team and heartfelt thanks to the people who helped, both directly and indirectly, in the successful completion of the African Tax Outlook. ATAF is proud that the special environment and support which it is able to provide facilitated work on this project, which was brought to fruition thanks to the hard work, diligence and support of the following people:

- Prof. Dr. Michael Bräuninger, senior economist, and Ms. Susan Nakato, economist and Supervisor of Corporate Performance Reporting, Monitoring and Evaluation at the Uganda Revenue Authority. They managed, analysed data and developed the ATO storyline.
- Technical advisor, Ms. Milly Nalukwago, Assistant Commissioner in charge of Research Planning and Development at the Uganda Revenue Authorrity. Her guidance, insight, opinions and wealth of experience from implementing the East Africa Revenue Authorities' Comparative Revenue Analysis publications.
- The editorial panel of prominent economists who provided comments and suggestions on the ATO draft storyline.
- Mr. Ken Kincaid, technical writer, who edited, wrote and provided guidance in finalising the African Tax Outlook.
- ATAF Research Director, Dr. Nara Monkam, who played a crucial role and invested her time in guiding the team to bring the project to fruition.
- Mr. Frankie Mbuyamba, ATAF Research Project Manager who coordinated the whole process and showed tireless commitment.
- Finally, ATAF is grateful for the financial and technical support provided by the Deutsche Gesellschaft für Internationale Zusammenarbeit (German International Development Cooperation [GIZ]) and for the expertise of Dr. Christiane Schuppert and Maurice Ochieng.
- A special word of thanks, too, for the financial support provided by ATAF donors namely, Irish Aid (the overseas development programme of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Trade, Republic of Ireland), the Ministry of Foreign Affairs (Minbuza) of the Netherlands, and the State Secretariat of Economic Affairs (SECO), Switzerland.
